Rep. Jon Runyan (R-NJ) was elected in the Republican wave of 2010 to represent New Jersey's Third Congressional District. A member of the National Republican Congressional Committee's (NRCC) Patriot Program, Congressman Runyan is taking the fight to Washington Democrats and is a key player in the GOP effort to cut taxes, reduce spending and shrink the size of government in order to create jobs and improve the economy.

A recent survey shows that the people of the Third district, which encompasses parts of Burlington, Camden and Ocean counties, stretching from the Pennsylvania border to the Long Beach Island on the Jersey Shore, support Congressman Runyan's efforts and are strongly backing him in his reelection fight.

Philly Burbs reports that:

"The first independent poll of the 3rd Congressional District race is out, and it shows Republican incumbent Jon Runyan with a double-digit lead over Democratic challenger Shelley Adler. The poll, conducted by the new Stockton Polling Institute at the William Hughes Center for Public Policy at the Richard Stockton College of New Jersey in Galloway, has Runyan leading Adler 49 percent to 39 percent among likely voters, with 12 percent still undecided....The race between Runyan, a House freshman and former Philadelphia Eagles lineman, and Adler, an attorney and former Cherry Hill councilwoman, is considered the most competitive of all the congressional races in New Jersey."

In order to send this former Eagles linemen back to Washington to fight for more jobs and less government, however, we need to make sure he gets the resources he needs to win. Help Congressman Runyan out today by donating to the Freedom Project, which supports House Republican candidates and challengers who share Speaker Boehner's vision of a smaller, less costly and more accountable federal government.
