Galloway, NJ – Stockton University's Manahawkin Instructional Site and Office of Service-Learning will host a free screening of "The Trials of Muhammad Ali," on Wednesday, Oct. 14.

This feature-length documentary film covers Ali's toughest bout, his battle to overturn the five-year prison sentence he received for refusing U.S. military service. "Trials" is not a boxing film. It is a fight film tracing a formative period in Ali's life, one that is remarkably unknown to young people today and often neglected by those who remember him as a boxer.

The film will be shown at 10 a.m. the Manahawkin Instructional Site, 712 East Bay Ave., Manahawkin, NJ.

The event is free and open to the public. Please RSVP by calling 609-626-3883.

This is one of a series of films that will be shown at Stockton through the Indie Lens Pop-Up, a neighborhood series that brings people together for film screenings and community-driven conversations. Featuring documentaries seen on the PBS series Independent Lens, Indie Lens Pop-Up draws local residents, leaders, and organizations to discuss what matters most, from newsworthy topics to family and relationships. Make friends, share stories, and join the conversation.
