Motion Passed: 19-0-01*

*Senators Abstained: Maribeth Capelli

Vice President's Report

Well, here we are: the end of another academic year. It's been a challenging one for many of us on Student Senate, in part due to Senate and in part due to academics. In many ways, I am glad it's over; in others—like the fact that I've reached the end of my undergraduate career—I wish we had another month—at least!—left.

I'd like to thank everyone who kept me going this year, as it was tough. Many times in the fall I considered resigning, but the encouragement of friends—including peers and administration—always left me rethinking my position, and in the end I am glad that I stayed on Senate, as this experience, difficult though it was, has helped me grow quite a bit. With the many times Senate came under fire (and, admittedly, many of these times were warranted), my skin has thickened quite a bit, although I'd be lying if I said that harsh criticisms, even if targeting Senate as a whole, didn't feel like personal attacks. Try not to take them personally, though.

A word to our new Senate: Listen carefully to the student body, as you will be representing them. It will help to sometimes remove your point of view from the realm of Senate and instead apply it to the realm of the student body: you'll be able to see more clearly why they are criticizing you and how it might be wise to respond.

About compensation: Remember why you joined Senate in the first place; it was probably to be involved and to voice the concerns of the student body. These are good reasons. If compensation is enacted for next year, remember your reasons for joining Senate, and consider waiving your compensation: There is a satisfaction that comes from helping others, and monetary retribution destroys this satisfaction. Please be a senator to help others—not yourselves.

With that, I have reached the end of my term as vice president. Again, thank you to all who have helped me along the way, and congratulations to our new senators.

Academic Policies Committee

Maribeth yields the floor to Katerina to report for the Academic Policies Committee. Katerina thanks the large crowd for attending this week's meeting and yields the floor to Caleb.

Caleb formally accepts the petition in regards to the issues regarding senate compensation. The petition will be reviewed to ensure that all signatures are valid and that the written proposal does not go against policy. Caleb explains that if all is valid, the committee will vote on the policy and announce their decision within two full meetings. If the committee votes yes, the petition will pass as policy and if voted no, the vote will go back to the students. If the students vote no, and 2/3 of the students in last election vote yes, then the policy will be overruled.

There is a motion to make grammatical changes to all sections of the constitution discussed in today's meeting. Motion seconded by Jessica.

Motion Passed: 18-0-02*

*Senators Abstained: Maribeth Capelli, Eddie Horan

There is a motion to amend the election section of the constitution. This change allows students the right to vote on their president and vice president once the old senate nominates the candidates. The students are also given the right to decide on the 23 senators from a given list candidates. Motion seconded by Cristian.

Motion Passed: 18-0-02*

*Senators Abstained: Maribeth Capelli, Eddie Horan

There is motion to amend the behavior section of the constitution. The constitution currently states, "Proper conduct must be adhered to at all times during the senator's term on student senate." The committee proposes the added definition to this section, which states, "Proper conduct varies based upon the given situation the senator is in." Also, if the executive cabinet must meet with someone based on an accusation brought against them, and are found guilty, there is currently a limited range of discipline that can be applied. Currently, the senator could not be temporarily suspended or removed from the senate due to their misconduct. The change made to this would allow the beginning of the impeachment process to take place in order to properly address the issue and make sure all accusations are true. Motion seconded by Tom.

Motion Passed: 17-0-03*

*Senators Abstained: Maribeth Capelli, Kiyle Osgood, Adaobi Michaels

There is a motion to amend the requirements for a senator. If a senator has been impeached, recalled, terminated for reason of absence, or resigned, they may not run for a position again. A senator who has resigned may appeal in writing to the executive cabinet in order to be exempt from this clause and avoid punishment for resigning due to personal reasons. The executive cabinet must address the appeal within two weeks. Motion seconded by Jessica.

Motion Passed: 17-0-03*

*Senators Abstained: Maribeth Capelli, Eddie Horan, Kiyle Osgood

There is a motion to apply all requirements for senator to this year's current candidates. Motion seconded by Jessica. Caleb and Maryam ask senators to be mindful of the discussion that took place at the last committee meeting regarding these changes and to take those ideas into consideration while voting. Kiyle states that he believes it is unethical to apply this requirement when all candidates have already handed in their petitions. Motion seconded by Jessica.

Motion Failed: 01-17-02*

*Senators in favor: Jessica Carey

Senators Abstained: Maribeth Capelli, Carl Archut

Caleb yields the floor back to Maribeth.

Legislative Policies and Government Affairs Committee

Maribeth yields the floor to Jessica to report for the Legislative Policies and Government Affairs Committee. Jessica reports that her committee has met with the Student Welfare Committee this past week to discuss the results from the University Status Survey, which resulted in over 900 participants. She also reports that Angelo has presented his information from the meeting with the Office of Service Learning pertaining to the NY Times. He is happy to report that the senate will be increasing its budget to become an official co-sponsor of the NY Times here on campus. The senate will now be sharing the burden of financing that responsibility with the Office of Service Learning. Jessica also reports that Maryam would like to thank everyone who participated in the Higher Education Week.

Jessica discusses the results from the University Status Survey and reminds the public that the 900 participants make up only about 10% of the student population at Stockton. Jessica yields the floor back to Maribeth.

Maribeth reports that the survey discussed only covers the quantitative results and does not include the comments that were provided by students. The questions asked were purposely very vague as the faculty senate sent out a survey that collected comments as well, which did not make it into this final report. The college wide task force on university status will be meeting tomorrow and the senate will provide a short presentation for them on comments that resulted from the survey questions. The Legislative Policies and Student Welfare Committee will be going through the comments and compile a report that will be presented at the next full meeting.

Public Relations Committee

Maribeth yields the floor to Michelle to report for the Public Relations Committee. Michelle thanks everyone who came out to “Meet the Candidates” to meet all of the potential candidates and the debate team for helping with the presidential debate. She also thanks her committee for helping out with advertising, social networking, flyers, etc. this past year. Michelle announces that her committee will be holding “Denim Day” next Wednesday to raise awareness for rape victims. There will be food, speakers, and self-defense classes for women. Michelle reminds everyone to vote and yields the floor back to Maribeth.

Maribeth adds that polls for student senate elections, professor of the year, class council, and board of trustees have been extended until 9:00 am tomorrow. Those who have not yet voted, have until then to do so.

Student Welfare Committee

Maribeth yields the floor to Carl to report for the Student Welfare Committee. Carl thanks those who completed the survey on university status. He announces that Nick will be contacting Don Woolslayer in regards to the missing stop sign in North Lot and Alison will be meeting with Len Farber in regards to other issues. Also, there was a concern brought up regarding meal plans being used after the last day of classes. Carl informs the public that this policy has always been in affect and that it must end the last day of classes despite the full week following up to graduation. Carl yields the floor back to Maribeth.

Accomplishments & Acknowledgments

The 2014 Fiscal Year was a very successful year. The Finance Committee faced many challenges, yet overpowered them with precision and poise. The committee began with an “overall year agenda,” which was to hold accountable every organization. This mind set was given from the fact that every student organization is allocated funding from the student’s activity fees. We as senators are voted by these paying students, therefore we must assure that the students receive the product that they are paying for; activities, programs, events, trips, conferences, etc.

The first attempt towards the overall year agenda was introducing the Point System Policy in the beginning of the school year. The policy had a rocky start, but eventually the student organizations accepted the policy because of the concept of it. Since the implementation of the policy, the committee has witness double figure attendances at the ICC meetings; improvement in the line of communication between student development, student organizations, and student senate; and an increase in fund raising and a decrease in wasteful budgetary spending.

Now as the policy was meant to be a tool for the overall year agenda, the budget approval process was what the agenda revolved around. The process was met with many challenges such as an increase in student organizations, yet receiving no budget increase provided by the school administration. At the end, the committee successfully balanced the budget by studying the student organizations' spending patterns, school impact, and financial history. Approximately 70% of the student organizations received a slight budget increase, as the supplemental account will remain at approximately $100,000 next year.

In conclusion, there is room for improvement, especially for the Point System Policy. But there is a consensus amongst all student organizations, student senators, and school administration, that this is good start to a new era of constraints and accountability. The Finance Committee would like to thank every student organization for their cooperation and patience this past school year. The committee would also like to thank as well, the office of Student Development, the office of the Dean of Students, and our colleagues of the Capelli Administration.
